To whom it may concern.

As a concerned consumer I am deeply troubled by the direction of the proposed settlement in the Microsoft anti-trust trials. Indeed, the way the settlement is worded it only appears to hand Microsoft even more power in the future with regards to thier stranglehold on the publics exposure to computers, the Internet and upcoming consumer electronics devices.

We cannot afford as a nation to have one company be the sole interface to how we communicate to each other. Microsoft has demonstrated that it is incapable of playing by the accepted rules of business in the US and should be punished accordingly.

I feel that the settlement proposed by the states in non-agreement with the current settlement does far more to control Microsoft as a company and to help level the field for competeters in the market.

Thank you.
